The Rhode Island Museum of Art (RIMA) is dedicated to the exhibition, interpretation, and preservation of American and European paintings, prints, drawings, and decorative arts from the 18th to the early 20th centuries. The museum's collection includes works by such artists as Winslow Homer, Thomas Cole, and James McNeill Whistler. RIMA is housed in a historic building on the campus of Rhode Island College, providing a unique setting for the display of its valuable holdings.

New England

Congratulations to the New England Museum and its Warwick Museum Alliance of Massachusetts.

The following NEA-funded projects resulted from the National Endowment for the Arts:

- 3-Museum Exhibit: A traveling exhibition featuring works from the collections of the New England Museum Alliance of Massachusetts.
- 同仁博物馆: A collaborative project with the Princeton University Art Museum, focusing on the growth of American art from the 18th to the 20th centuries.
- A New England: The Rhode Island Museum of Art (RIMA), Providence: A special exhibition exploring the history and development of the Rhode Island Museum of Art, highlighting key works from its collection.

To support the NEA's engagement programs:

- Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum: New York, NY
- Museum of Fine Arts, Boston: Boston, MA

For more information, visit the NEA's website.