LePage 2022: Make Maine Great Again
Former Maine Governor Attends National Federation of Republican Assembly Presidential Endorsing Convention

The National Federation of Republican Assemblies (NFRA) Presidential Endorsing Convention was held in Atlanta, Georgia over Columbus Day weekend. This year it was hosted by the Georgia Republican Assembly.

Under NFRA President Alex Johnson, the Georgia Assembly in four years has grown from 10 members to more than 500, and has more than 10 local chapters across the state. So we could say the South is going to rise again! As expected, they treated us with Southern hospitality.

Friday was an all-day CPAC presentation with breakout sessions by the Leadership Institute, featuring speakers Congressman Mo Brooks, Fox News Contributor Deneen Borelli, Georgia Congressman Jody Hice (Freedom Caucus Member) and many others. Saturday was again the Leadership Institute, but the number one speaker by far (based on all the reviews) was Governor Paul LePage of Maine.

The Convention endorsed President Trump, which we all expected. He is the greatest president in our lifetime. He has made “America Great Again” in less than three years.

The Massachusetts Republican Assembly (MARA) delegates were there to greet Governor LePage, and he remembered us from our convention in March of 2017. It is official: He is going to run for governor of Maine in 2022!

It has been said that his wife did not want him to run again. To achieve the status of candidate for governor of Maine in the LePage household, he had to pay dearly. His wife's demands were: (1) a new truck and (2) he had to learn to LIKE country music. She does not want to be the First Lady of Maine again, so Governor LePage will be running with the First Daughter. The Democrats in Maine are going nuts over that one. He has purchased the truck, but he is still working on the country music agreement. My condolences go out to him as I am not a fan of country music.

LePage has a higher rating than he did when he was governor.
